For this purpose, the parents were requested to arrange one small sized towel. After performing this activity, the kids felt so enthusiastic that they started folding their handkerchiefs and other small clothes themselves only. The purpose of doing this activity was to make them independent while doing the daily chores.

True North- 'Character Building Programme'

Through this programme, we focus on an education that incorporates values, ethics, emotional maturity and a sense of civics (through various activities/games/challenges). The following activities were done during the month of January. The character traits taken are 'Self-Control' & 'Honesty':

Self-Control:

1. Word Chain: The teacher starts with word. The children must remember the words said previously and think of unique words to add.
2. Dance Party Freeze: One child is the leader and others follow his steps. When the music stops, everyone freezes and then, there is a new leader and it continues.
3. Color Freeze: This is also similar to the very common 'Freeze Dance'. The only difference is that when the music stops, the teacher says a color and children have to quickly get anything of that colour within 10 seconds.
4. Guard Duty: One child becomes the (Queen's)guard for the palace. They have a mission to be as serious and guard-like as possible. That means using self-control and ignoring anyone who tries to distract you!

Honesty:

1. Snakes and Ladders: This is a version of the ancient game of Snakes and Ladders, originally used as a moral teaching tool in India. This game is a playful way to initiate discussions on ethical issues, moral values, and behaviour.
2. Tell a truth and Tell a lie: For every question asked, the child will give one wrong answer and one right. The other children will guess which is correct/true.
3. Honesty Board Game (Name 3 things): Children roll a dice and answer the question given on the number they get.
